

BEWARE

THUNDER BIRDS

MELÉNDEZ

CAMP BEAST

No. 15

NOTES

No one knows how long the Thunderbirds have been patrolling the high skies of the American Midwest, but their presence seems to predate the written word. The wingspan of the Thunderbird exceeds 18 feet, and their enormous size has caused people to mistake the birds for small airplanes. The Thunderbird's biggest pet peeve is people throwing Styrofoam in the fire, so in the interest of avoiding the destruction of the human race at the hands (thunder talons) of this giant immortal bird, please refrain from burning plastics or other toxic materials.
